Program Of Free Lectures On Home Building Slated

Institute For Home Planners To Be Held Here

To provide jobs for returning servicemen and insure the post war prosperity of Ocean Beach, Mission Beach and other beach communities by building up a back-log of new homes to be constructed here after the war, a program of free lectures on modern home building has been scheduled for presentation at the Ocean Beach Elementary School commencing Monday evening, March 5, under the direction of the Home Planners Institute of San Diego county, announces the Institute secretary, Frank Lockett.

Through the series, Ocean Beach and Mission Beach residents planning to buy, build or remodel a home after the war will be given an opportunity to hear leading architects, contractors, real estate men, bankers, landscape artists, plumbers, electricians, interior decorators, and other home building experts speak on the latest trends of home construction. Those unable to attend or who miss the Monday classes will be able to attend home planning classess on Tuesday evening at the La Jolla high school where an identical series is being given. The series will last 10 weeks.

According to Joe R. Lownes, president of the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Home Planner's Institute's program of free lectures will not only serve to stimulate an interest in Ocean Beach's home building after the war and thus pave the way for immediate absorption of labor when war contracts are cancelled but will also aid in making Ocean Beach a city of more beautiful homes.

Further information concerning the activities of the Home Planner's Institute can be had by calling in person at the Institute headquarters, main floor Electric Building, San Diego or by telephoning Main 9867.

"Major Disaster" Plan Is Outlined For San Diego

The acting city manager, F. A. Rhodes, today announced the completion of a "Major Disaster" plan for the city which has for its specific purpose the protection of life and property of the citizens of the city in the event of disaster whether it arises from enemy action or from natural causes.

The guiding principle of this plan is that any permanent disaster preparedness organization should be in the regularly constituted protective agencies of government, augmented by volunteers who, in the present instance, have been trained under civilian defense.

The plan is intended to mobilize initially all of the city protective services as well as the auxiliaries of the Citizens' Defense Corps, and from this point to meet the disaster situation as it develops. The auxiliary services are trained by, and will operate in disaster under, the chiefs of police, fire, public works, health department and emergency medical service.

Direct control of the auxiliary or volunteer Civilian Defense Protective Services for mobilization in disaster is accomplished through the zone commanders and their staffs of the San Diego Citizens' Defense Corps within the seven geographical zones into which the city has been divided.

Ocean Beach zone commander is Harold Kercher of Point Loma and Harry Masters is deputy zone commander, with local control emanating from the Ocean Beach police substation. Masters and Tom Plant, district air raid warden, attended a staff drill of Control No. 1 down town Monday evening.

After initial mobilization, or prior to it if the emergency warrants, operations of these volunteers, will be directed by the appropriate chiefs of the regular city protective services, Rhodes explained.

The warden service, having had the broadest training of any of the auxiliary services of the Citizens' Defense Corps, is planned to assist any or all of the services in any manner for which their training may have fitted them. While the other services, such as auxiliary police, auxiliary fire, etc., have had specific technical training, the wardens training has been general and they could be properly thought of in connection with this plan as general "pinch hitters" for the whole organization. Additional training is being offered them now in police and fire auxiliary service.

Sen. Ed Fletcher Cites Development Of Water Assets

City And State Will Survey Sites For Dams, He Says

Using the Kiwanis slogan, "We Build," Sen. Ed Fletcher, San Diego county's legislator in the state senate at Sacramento, applied the slogan to an interesting and informative resume of the water and land resources development of California, and particularly of the improvements made in San Diego county and in the San Joaquin and Sacramento river valleys, given the Kiwanis club at this week's meeting of Tuesday evening. The speaker was introduced by Rollin E. Reed, program chairman.

Senator Fletcher's remarks stemmed from 58 years of residence in San Diego, much of the period having been devoted to public service. He is starting his twelfth year as a member of the state senate from this county. He said he came to this city as a boy of 14. He said he and Mrs. Fletcher have been married 49 years and have seven boys and three girls, with five of the boys in the armed forces.

"I love to build dams and to build roads," he said. He first told of highway development and the fight he had waged to get improved, shorter highways out of San Diego, especially to Yuma, Ariz., stating that the fight is still on for a low level highway and for an improvement of highway 395 that will reduce the mileage to Riverside 36 miles.

Taking up the matter of more water for San Diego and San Diego county, he indicated that he was not so keen about getting the additional supply from the Colorado river because of the poor quality of that water as he was in getting more water from the watersheds nearer to San Diego. At least 52 percent of the water from the nearby watersheds is now wasting into the ocean and he quoted reliable engineers as stating that 75 percent of the water from Lake Hodges has been lost to the ocean the past 22 years, a waste sufficient to have supplied the entire needs of the city of San Diego.

Expects Survey by State

The speaker said he was more optimistic about prospects for more development of the nearby water resources now that the city council had appropriated $10,000 and the state an equal sum to be used for an early survey of these resources and particularly of the best possible sites for more dams with which to impound the extra water needed for San Diego. "Our chances will be greatly improved, especially for getting state and federal aid" he indicated by getting the approval of the state engineer and the army engineers before decision on plans is made.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting included Lieut. Glenn Martin of Ocean Beach, a guest of Glenn Jones; E. A. Bagnell, son-in-law and guest of Tom Plant; and Anthony De Pietro, a guest of Dr. W. B. Oster.

WHAT'S BUZZIN'!

By CHERIE.

Drippings!—

1945 Red Cross War Fund campaign is on! The most we can give, is the least we can do! Let's back it all the way this time.

It's twin girls at the Roy Woods domain! Joan Kay and Janet Faye are just about two weeks old now. 'Papa' Woods arrived on the scene just in time to escort 'Mama' to the hospital, and inform her that he was on a 30-day furlough! That's enough to surprise anyone into seeing double!

Fred Edwards of 4879 Long Branch Ave., has had his booklet "Know Your Japanese" copyrighted. Fred gives you the names of Japanese towns, how to pronounce, their meaning, and other data pertaining to same. Having been in nearly every town in Japan acting as a guide and interpreter, Fred is just the guy that can give us the low down!

Is it possible that the "Mr. M. of Ocean Beach" who transposes nursery rhymes could be our Mr. Miltonberger? If so, how's chances on giving your local 'colyumnist' a break! ! ?

Sure Sign of Spring—

Mrs. You and Me in our shorts and bra's and 'Pop' without a shirt, cutting and trimming the lawn and planting the spring flowers! Or was that 'Pop' washing the car?)!

Rae Ashner Valentin of Chicago is here on an extended visit with the Nathan Ashners. Aylce and Berleen met Rae in Los Angeles Thursday, and she is still in the act of thawing out from the Chicago ice and snow!

Tony Matevich and Gene Henderson are vacationing in Arizona and so far, we haven't received any cards saying they wished we were there!

Was Jack Carpenter's (Tony's) face red one day last week? It could have been the reflection from his tie, but methinks 'twas from the four female companions he rode to work with!

Nedra Polan (Nedra's Gift Shop) is now a full fledged member of the Kiwaniannes. Our membership is shooting upwards, and we'll soon have to hire a hall in which to have our meetings!

Black Boy—by Richard Wright—

Richard Wright's story of his own childhood and youth, "Black Boy," begins where 'Strange Fruit' and 'Freedom Road' end. It is the most intimate, terrifying and heartbreaking account of one's own life story I have ever read. His 'Native Son' was a bitter, blunt and forceful story, which left you wondering how anyone could write such a tale, but 'Black Boy' is a frank autobiography of the author's shocking boyhood, and some of its passages you will never forget. With such a background, few people could have attained the heights that Richard Wright has attained.

World Needs More Fishermen

"What this world needs is more fishermen," declared Carl Schroder today, a candidate for City Councilman for the First District.

"Basing a campaign on old-fashioned precepts may take a lot of people by surprise," Schroder said, "But did anyone ever hear of an actually bad person who was a true dyed-in-the-wool fisherman?

"Why fishing itself teaches us the fundamentals of real sportsmanship. And in these 'meatless days' I'd say that fishing is a pretty sensible way to spend some spare time."

But Schroder does not confine his interest merely to youngsters and oldsters who use a hook and line of a sunny afternoon. He foresees commercial sport fishing off San Diego as an important item in planning for post-war developments here.

"It will not only mean jobs for many men and women, but it will bring sportsmen here from throughout the country, and that will mean that many of them will eventually settle and invest in this area," he pointed out.

Known as the "daddy of the Southland's commercial sport fishing industry," Schroder has long been an advocate of the program. Before the war it had grown into considerable proportions, and Schroder thinks it can be one of the most important in the city for attracting interest here.

Reference to old newspaper files show that the first fishing barge, the Isaac Walton, was placed in operation off LaJolla by Schroder in 1926. The venture was highly successful, reports reveal.

Schroder recalls development of the industry, until in 1933, the Star and Crescent Co. put especially built fishing fleets in operation, and many individuals operated sport fishing craft that visited the kelp beds and made daily trips to the Coronado islands.

Fame of San Diego's sport fishing spread throughout the nation, and high dignitaries as well as the general public visited here. Many sportsmen from foreign countries enjoyed the sport at various points off San Diego.

Many varieties of fishing fish may be taken in local waters. These include swordfish, huge jewfish, white sea bass, hard-hitting yellowtail, darting tuna, gamey Spanish mackerel and other denizens of the deep.

Sport fishing as an industry following the war has limitless possibilities, Schroder points out.

COOKIE DAY

It's cookie day at Ocean Beach.
With warming-oven smell,
And kindly skillful mother hands
To help the boys get well.

Each man has fought the hero way.
Bereft of Human joy,
But, Cookie Day at Ocean Beach,
He's just a little boy.

He's lying here away from home,
In friendly nurse's care,
Balboa Park's a lovely spot,
And cupboards are not bare.

And there's a group of mother hearts,
A-watching through the war,
To cheer the lonely mother's son
Who likes the cookie jar.

Who has a birthday in the ward?
He thought himself forgot—
The homesick lad with hard-fought tears—
The word from home comes not.

But here is nurse with candles bright,
A tray set out with cheer,
Again he is a smiling boy
With mother spirit near.

'Tis to his bed they come with song,
The merry old yoo-hoo—
"Happy Birthday, dearest lad!
There's always thought of you."

God bless those friendly mother hands,
So skilled in kitchen art—
And bless the earnest deeds of all
Who try to do their part.
T'will take a better pen than mine
To tell the deeper reach.
Of that fine group with Red Cross sign,
Out there at Ocean Beach.

—Ann Redford.

State Government Cost $266,197,926 For Fiscal Year

Sacramento—State Controller Harry B. Riley today announced that California's expenditures for the cost of government during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1944, totaled $226,197,926, as compared with $251,299,772 for 1942-43—an increase of $14,898,154, or 5.93 percent.

Combined state revenues from all sources for the 1943-44 fiscal year amounted to $400,691,653, according to Riley—an all-time high representing an increase of $33,134,456, or 9.01 percent over the preceding fiscal year's figure and an excess of $134,493,727 over cost of government expenditures in 1943-44.

Cash expenditures for cost of state government during the previous four years were as follows:

For 1943, $251,299,772, a 5.76 percent decrease.

For 1942, $266,669,125, a 3.38 per cent decrease.

For 1941, $275,993,724, a 4.77 per cent decrease.

For 1940, $289,823,242, a 3.77 percent increase over the previous year.

The cost of government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1944, showed a net increase of $14,898,154 over the cost for the preceding fiscal year. The major increases occurred in the following functions: Aid to needy aged, $26,638,739; apportionments to counties for elementary schools, $4,467,115; apportionments to cities and counties of motor vehicle license fees ("in lieu" tax), $2,045,898; California Farm Production Council, $1,446,496; Department of Public Works—expenses, surveys, etc. in connection with plans for post-war building, $878,540; and Board of Harbor Commissioners, San Francisco, $615,609.

The foregoing, together with smaller increases in other costs, were partially offset by decreases totaling $21,610,308 in other functions.

The $26,638,739 increase in aid to needy aged was primarily due to new legislation, effective July 1, 1943, increasing the maximum aid from $40 to $50 per recipient, of which the Federal government pays one-half.

Alarming Figures On Delinquency Of Youth Is Cited

(By Brent Wright)

Carl Schroder, prominent civic leader and city council candidate for this district, was up in arms this week over alarming figures recently released on juvenile delinquency in San Diego county for 1944. Final tabulation for 1944 announced by juvenile authorities showed that more than 3000 cases involving girls and boys were referred to officials, an actual gain of 41 over the preceding year.

"What can we expect in a city bursting its own bounds where there is no planned recreation for youngsters," Schroder said. "All of these children are not bad. Very few of them are bad, in fact. Record breaking war activities are bound to take a toll of youth, at home as well as on the battlefield. But there is utterly no sense in prevailing conditions. Even if a child does make a mistake—and who of us can cast the first stone?—he or she is bound to be affected by association with professional criminals.

"Because some of our officials didn't have the insight or fortitude to look ahead, many of these children have been thrown into San Diego's city and county jails to await a hearing.

"It doesn't matter whether they are innocent or guilty. The law should be a correctional institute instead of a machine for punishment. It certainly isn't any credit to society to punish a 12 or 14 year old youngster by giving him a first-rate opportunity to be a criminal!"

"Schroder believes that no child is a criminal at heart." Supervision at home is one of the important things," he declared. "I realize that many mothers and fathers are in war work. But regardless of that factor, they should not let their children run loose. Many well-meaning parents do their best in the interests of a child. Sometimes it is necessary to call in authorities, perhaps. But it is high time some intelligent planning is undertaken to take care of this problem in a humane and businesslike manner."

Outdoor recreation was stressed by Schroder as being one of the important diversions for youth. "You don't learn anything unclean in the beauties of nature," he said.

"In my past business experience as a hardware and bicycle dealer I have always found a lot of pleasure in catering to the children. I fixed their bikes and helped them rig fishing tackle, hundreds of them. It has been a source of satisfaction to me in reflecting that practically all those youngsters have grown up to be fine citizens."

SOLDIER'S MESSAGE TO AMERICA—

Recently the Paris edition of the Stars and Stripes printed an editorial which is, in effect, an urgent "Message to America." This editorial was written by an army officer. Its author, Maj. Arthur Goodfriend, began his army career as a private, a combat infantryman before Aachen. So in his editorial, which was illustrated with a picture of a German soldier crouched behind a machine gun, he spoke as a soldier to soldiers. And he speaks to us here at home, too, in

Look, America!

Look, Britain! Look, America! Look, people of the United Nations! This picture is of a German soldier. Good, bad or indifferent, he is a fighting fool. His future is hopeless. He is fighting as he has never fought before.

Listen, America. Listen Britain! Listen, the United Nations! This man and millions like him are the enemy. His gun is loaded. When the trigger is pulled it shoots.

There is death in this man. Death in his gun. Death for any of us who, for as much as a minute, takes his eyes off the peeps. Whatever we soldiers have—all we have—we need to beat him. Single-mindedness. Solidarity. Skill. Confidence that every man behind us is dedicated to one end—the death and defeat for this foe.

To do this job our leaders are chosen. Chosen by us—by the people. They, in turn, have chosen our supreme commander. He leads us in the west. He disposes the troops, chooses the generals. Moves them here today, there tomorrow. Shifts men and materials to meet the tides of war.

And so the British fight under Eisenhower. The Americans fight under Montgomery. The French fight under Bradley. The British and Americans fight under the French. French, British, American, what does it matter?

What on God's ice-crusted earth matters right now except defeating this Hun? What Eisenhower does is for Ike to decide. For us to obey. With understanding, the understanding born of having fought under him from the beaches to the borderlands of the Reich.

He who places pride above military policy is a fool. He who spreads rumor is a traitor. He who panders to local prejudices and pride at the expense of the great purpose of all peoples—the defeat of this German—is an enemy. An enemy who sells out the soldiers, the peoples, the principles, the peace of an entire world.

SUGGESTIONS TO VETERANS—

Here is an admonition from Jack Stinnett, a Washington correspondent, that should be passed on to every service man and especially to discharged veterans:

"Don't carry your original discharge around with you. It will get dog-eared, dirty and possibly unreadable. You may lose it. In either case the red tape involved may result in such a snarl that you'll lose benefits you deserve, or even worse. Get a photostatic or certified copy (it wouldn't be a bad idea to get several at once, if you're inclined to be careless.) Either of these will serve in most cases. Put the original (and every other item of official service data you have) in a safety deposit box or fireproof safe or strong box. You'll have use for it the rest of your life."

Clip this and send or hand it to your friends or relatives in the armed forces.—San Diego Union.

A prominent business man fell in love with an actress and decided to marry her, but for the sake of prudence he employed a private detective to report on her life.

The detective's report read 'The lady has an excellent reputation; her past is without a blemish; and she has a circle of impeccable friends. The only breath of scandal is that lately she's been seen a great deal in the company of a business man of doubtful reputation."

California Folks Paid $4,232,593,000 Taxes Past Year

Federal Government Gets Over Three Billion Of It

The people of California paid $4,232,593,000 in taxes during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, California Taxpayers' association said today, making public its study of 44 years of income and expenditures of government in California.

Of the $4,232,593,000 in taxes paid by Californians in fiscal 1944, $3,371,698,000 went to the federal government, $545,828,000 to the state of California, and $315,067,000 to the local governments in the state.

Taxes collected from the people of California for all levels of government first passed the billion dollar mark in fiscal 1941, when they reached $1,074,967,000. In fiscal 1934 they passed the half billion level at $511,647,000. For fiscal year 1934, federal tax collections amounted to $151,946,000; state, $126,642,000; and local, $233,059,000. Since then, federal taxes have had an almost unbroken upward trend and state tax collections have gone up each year. Local taxes fell off to $229,702,000 for 1935 and reached $324,788,000 in 1942.

Taxes paid by Californians in fiscal 1944 averaged $505.50 per person for each of the 8,373,080 people in the state on January 1, 1944. Of this, $402.69 went to the federal government, $65.18 to the state and $37.63 to the local governments.

Per capita taxes for fiscal 1944 are almost six times as great as the $85.06 per capita collected for fiscal 1934. In that year, federal taxes averages $25.26 per capita; state, $21.05; and local $38.75.

USO News . . .

The Ocean Beach USO sponsored a beautiful wedding, held at Point Loma Methodist Church, Rev. James Roberts officiating.

The bride, Miss Erline Carothers, came here from Nashville, Tenn., to marry her childhood sweetheart Sgt. Charles Berry, U.S.M.C. The groom has seen much action in the South Pacific.

The bridesmaid, matron of honor, and bride wearing pastel dresses, with pastel bouquets made a beautiful picture in the candlelight service. Jacqueline and Grace Greeson attended the bride and Grace Greeson was matron of honor and Lloyd Greeson gave the bride in marriage.

AMERICAN HEROES
by JULIAN OLLENDORFF

War Bonds are appreciated when used to put machine guns into the hands of such heroes as Pfc. David Daily, U. S. Infantry, of Richmond, Texas. When the forward motion of two platoons was halted in a Pacific island attack, he stood up, draped an ammunition belt over his shoulder and opened fire from his hip, spraying enemy pillboxes. His action permitted fellow fighters to withdraw safely. He was cited for heroic action. Buy War Bonds.
